At this point, however, it matters less what caused the problem than that one exists. Sophie Richardson, director of the China program for Human Rights Watch, says China has rounded up more than a million Uyghurs, Chinese citizens who are a Muslim minority, and jailed them in camps. In response to the Uyghur repression, last July, the U.

China will have little productive surplus for future investments much less the grand projects that have drawn so much attention in the past. Jon Wertheim: You're saying at least in some cases, China's hacking to get this information. He and his colleagues have been tracking China as the country uses less-than-honorable methods to vacuum up all sorts of data from outside their borders.

Because they've already micro-targeted my dad based upon his DNA. With information about heredity and environment, suddenly they know more about us than we know about ourselves and, bypassing doctors, China can target us with treatments and medicine we don't even know we need. Beijing will be less able than in the past to wow observers with grand investment schemes.
