It is also breathed out in the same state so its effects are out of your system in around sixty seconds. During your labour, the midwife will continue to guide you and work with you according to your wishes. Women self administer with a mask and can be used during contractions in the first stage of labour to provide pain relief.

Managing pain in labour

Heat and water can also help to ease tension and backache in labour. The combination of warm water and massage can be powerfully relaxing. Imagine your baby moving deeper into your pelvis each time you breathe out.
