April 1980

Seeing this as a victory, the riots continued, and eventually Brereton had to call on the 3rd and 14th to restore order and he eventually led a charge with drawn swords through the mob in Queen Square. It became the heart of a turf war in the late 1990s and early 2000s and was named the most dangerous drug den in 2003. While still a weekly paper, Class War dubbed itself 'Britain's most unruly tabloid'.
