Exeter City Council

Summary Understanding how best to support all learners to achieve their goals is a key aspect of education. One of the principal findings is that the restructuring and the internationalization of demand have led to a relative shift in favour of the core regions.

The Role of Local Government in Sport

The case studies are modelled on similar formats covering recent changes in domestic and foreign tourism, seasonal and regional concentration, economic implications of tourism development, and tourism policies. This article will show that there was considerable public debate and disagreement over who was to blame for the sudden surge in the crime, over what could be done to prevent it, and over how to treat those accused and convicted of shoplifting.

Geordies: Roots of Regionalism, Edinburgh University Press, Edinburgh. This network proposes that these Assets for Resilient Communities lie at the centre of Mental Health M-ARC-H, and can enhance public mental health and wellbeing, help to prevent mental illness and support those living with mental health conditions. Another statistical analysis also showed 2 dimensions of tourist characteristics namely: 1 number of overnight stays and 2 educational level, which have statistically significant differences and relationships with the importance of quality of tourism experience and TDI respectively.

The Role of Local Government in Sport

This aims to improve the city's economy, particularly with the creation of new jobs and improvements in the property market, the retail, leisure and cultural facilities in the city centre and the city's transport system. Many modern economies are largely.

Launching the MARCH Network: Social, Cultural and Community Assets for Mental Health

At a time when Micheal Heseltine is proposing to undermine the authority of the structure plan in influencing local planning decisions, the authors of this paper find that it is the structure plan which offers most scope for a sane approach to retail planning. He supervises post-graduate students at Oxford University's Department of Politics and International Relations and at the Faculty of History.
