Data on youth participation

That in its essence is fascism: ownership of government by an individual, by a group, or any controlling private power. Who knows, such initiatives might even trigger wider support for change to the present democratic deficit in national policies.

Supporting cultural diversity

Yet at the same time, it attracts developmentalists on the left who underline the need to make government more responsive to disadvantaged and marginalized groups. To those who can hear me, I say, do not despair. They argue that historically, the former have been more successful at sustaining economic growth than the latter.

Frameworks for child participation in social care

When children develop positive relationships with other children and educators, it helps them to feel that they belong. This study aimed to provide a map of the challenges that local authorities may face when engaging young people in decision-making and suggests solutions to overcome them. They will emphasize that they are pursuing greater participation, transparency, accountability, and inclusion for developmental rather than politically normative purposes and are not in the business of trying to shape the political life of other countries.

Leadership essentials

And members - leaders, cabinet members - are the ones who bear the brunt of reputational and political damage. These tensions are rarely acknowledged, and remain buried beneath the continual references to the four principles as a shared agenda. And by so doing, the workload of the central government is reduced.

Data on youth participation

In addition there was widespread anxiety about the low levels of voting among young people at local elections. Those young people involved in the planning of Kirklees Children's Service Plan were formally accredited through this scheme. However, the political will to translate this commitment into substantive political reform is often lacking.

What would make young people get interested in politics?

Transparency International and other groups helped push anticorruption onto the agenda.

Importance of Local Government in a State/Country

Estimates suggest that turnout fell to approximately 39 per cent among 18- to 24-year-olds The Electoral Commission, 2001. Child Abuse and Neglect, 79 1 , pp. The legislation is a key part of the Scottish Government's strategy for making Scotland the best place in the world for children to grow up.
