Here's help from bestselling communications expert Suzette HadenElgin.

The Gentle Art of Communicating with Kids by Suzette Haden Elgin, Elgin, Paperback

I've learned that I tend to use a lot of placating language - pretending that I don't care, or that I have no opinion, because I care so much about a topic but don't want to be shot down for my opinion, or that I care excessively about others' perceptions. I kept thinking it was similar to several other books I've read on communicating well with children and then was delighted at the end of the book to find a suggested reading list that included several of the books I had already been relying on.

Do you ever feel as if you and your child speak different languages? She founded the Science Fiction Poetry Association, and is considered an important figure in the field of science fiction constructed languages. The advice is, in my experience, easy to understand, easy to apply, and absolutely right on target.
