Murder in the Submarine Zone

There are only nine passengers on the ship, that would normally have many war, and the threat of submarine attacks is ever-present. The sub is testing new equipment with 2 competing companies going after the same contract. This article has been rated as Low-importance on the project's.

Murder in the Submarine Zone

Things like shaving brushes, army uniforms, old-fashioned fingerprinting - who has knowledge about them these days? Another of those thoroughly absorbing mysteries by Carr. Page is found stabbed to death with a screwdriver owned by Chapman. .

Murder in the Submarine Zone

Steaming through a storm, its crew alert for u-boats, caring a half million pounds of explosives, and with a shady group of passengers more than one of the passengers gets murdered, after all, out of a population of nine, the SS Edwardic has the plotting advantage of providing one la Carter Dickson what John Dickson Carr called himself in his locked-room Sir Henry Merrivale mysteries created a good setting for a wartime mystery: an ocean liner running munitions for the English in early 1940.

Nine and Death Makes Ten by Carter Dickson

Search by ISBN to ensure that you find the exact edition, or you can search by author, title and publication year. Whose is the fingerprint if there is no stowaway? Another whodunnit on a ship from the man behind Cabin B-13? As is usual with Carr, the solution is implausible, the romance aspect cloying, but as always, gripping and highly entertaining.
