Gloucestershire Wildlife Trust

In March 2011 the Trust and the Gloucestershire Centre for Environmental Records published its 'State of the Natural Environment Report' on behalf of the Gloucestershire Environmental Partnership authors: Dr C Studholme, Gloucestershire Wildlife Trust; Linda Moore, Gloucestershire Centre for Environmental Records. Older reviews have less impact on the Popularity Index. It's a variety of narrow, established vested interests, rather than a greater public interest, that's stopping it I'm sure.

REVIEW: De Vere Cotswold Water Park

It is always a pleasure responding to such positive feedback. This site deserves protection but the press release makes it sound as though a bountiful NE has, in its generosity, deigned to protect this site as a favour. On the downside, some wear and tear is visible, and rooms lack air-conditioning, which many guests have said is an issue in the summertime.

Decléor massages, facials and more are available in nine treatment rooms.

GCER has approximately 1,000,000 species records in its database, many of these are supplied by the county recorders from the Gloucestershire Naturalists' Society.
