QSE

In the same vein, ask yourself the following questions: Does the activity involve employee travel, remote work or additional intermixing of professional and personal life? Of these categories, ownership is top priority, followed by either skills development or enterprise and supplier development. GENs, as the largest and therefore arguably most influential entities in the market, are subject to the most stringent BBBEE requirements for accreditation.

Like QSEs, they must show compliance with all of the categories on the scorecard, and they need to meet similar requirements when it comes to the cost of sales, job creation and so on. EMEs are the smallest entities, with an annual turnover of R10 million or less. A strategy that ignores any one of the elements will most likely result in a non-compliant status, meaning that money spent would render a zero return.
