Did ye ken him in Cromarty, say ye? When following the ordinary concerns of life, or engaged in its more active businesses, many of the better faculties of our minds seem overlaid : there is little of feel- ing, and nothing of fancy; and those sympathies which should bind us to the good and Mr of nature lie repressed and inactive. At first I thought the swankie didna ill, — Again I glowr'd, to hear him better still ; Bauld, slee, an' sweet, his lines more glorious grew, Glowed round the heart, an' glanced the soul out through. Other writers inscribe their names on the plaster which covers for the time the outside structure of society; his is engraved, like that of the Egyptian architect, on the ever-during granite within.
