Frases de Bram Stoker (122 citas, página 3)

Both volumes uniformly bound in red cloth with gilt lettering, rules and decoration to spine and front board. Both novels are interesting reading, primarily for their examination of the roles of women in society, as well as for Stoker's characterization of women. During this time he became lifelong friends with Bram Stoker, who praised him in his review of Hamlet and thereafter joined Irving as the manager for the company.

Special thanks go also to Dr Jeff Rodman, to Ms Sarah Briggs, and to Mr Ian Lovell of the BCHE Computing Centre. His experiences as a critic, with the social and political contacts made through his continuing membership of the Philosophical and Historical Societies, appear to have served as the qualifications which obtained for him the editorship of a short-lived evening periodical, The Irish Echo, first published on 6 November 1873.
