The Kilvert Connection

A young man who was coming up from Llanthony to join the party was saved by his greyhound unaccountably hanging behind, whining and running back so as to entice his master home again.

Kilvert's Diary by William, Plomer

Francis Kilvert spent his early years at Harden huish, was educated privately, went in due course to Wadham College, Oxford, and entered the Church. He is an irresistible companion.

The Kilvert Connection

She later gave one notebook to Jeremy Sandford, the playwright, because he had written a piece about Kilvert for the radio which she liked. What was it with Victorian men and their little-girl fantasies? He had breakfast that day in Brecon, dined at Gwernyfed and slept at Harpton, passing through Newchurch. I liked the older people's stories of the olden days -- it's not just the Victorian's present that's different to ours, it's the past that they're most familiar with.
