Its offensive posture and deployments of troops suggests that the arms buildup is purely Pakistan-centric, which will significantly change the dimensions of the Indo-Pak security environment.

A Foreign Policy Adrift

Our survey of 200 global banking executives revealed that this challenge is particularly acute in Europe, where almost 60% of survey respondents indicated that employee fears of returning to work will hamper their ability to succeed after the pandemic. More specifically, in a recent Deloitte-FS-ISAC benchmarking survey, access control, data security, and detection processes were highlighted as the top investment priorities for financial institutions.

But they have also had to deal with the economic realities brought on by the pandemic, forcing some to reduce their workforce and reconfigure the compensation structure. This unceremonious exile went largely unremarked at the time — to most, it was a small subplot in the high drama of the Cold War.

INDIA'S CHINA POLICY: CHANGE AND CONTINUITY

The Indian military is constantly revolutionizing through doctrinal transformation and massively purchasing military hardware. We also asked about their investment priorities and anticipated structural changes in the year ahead, as they pivot from recovery to the future. India is seeking strategic inconsistency as compared to its neighbouring rivals, most specifically Pakistan, both at conventional and non-conventional levels.

India's Defence Modernization: Implications for Pakistan

For instance, US Bancorp plans to maintain its café-style branches and reemphasize its role in facilitating conversations with customers as transactions increasingly shift to digital channels.

In addition to data quality and governance, another challenge is the prevalence of deficiencies in risk control design and architecture. On the other hand, it is now abundantly clear that COVID-19 has acted as a catalyst for digitization.

The Sunday Tribune

Almost 42% of respondents anticipate increased investment in AI technologies at their firms over the next year. Her statements keep changing now and then. It is not a stretch to assume that any strategist or policymaker worth their salt is not shackling themselves to the constraints of an international order.
