In 1953, the first major bypassing of US 66 occurred in Oklahoma with the opening of the between Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Chicago Highway & Road Information

The Route started downtown and followed Ogden Avenue west out of the city, then southwest to Joliet and on to St Louis. For east and west streets and streets running in a generally east and west direction the base line is State Street from the southern city boundary line to North Avenue, thence extended by an imaginary line through Lincoln Park and Lake Michigan. The road was not completed, however, until 1829.

Wells Drive near the Chicago Loop, through the Circle Interchange where it interchanges with the , then past an interchange with the near 66th Street, to its southern terminus in south Chicago, where it interchanges with the and continues southwest through south Chicago and the southern suburbs toward Champaign-Urbana. According to Logistics List, Atlanta is home to more than 75 Class A scheduled motor carriers, as well as more than 2,000 commodity carriers, contract haulers, and irregular intrastate route carriers. Official Bicycle paper maps, broken down by IDOT District are also available by order.

The group's redesignation proposal does not enjoy universal support, as requirements the route to meet modern US Highway system specifications could force upgrades that compromise its historic integrity or require US 66 signage be moved to for some portions of the route. However, one section through the outside , was fraught with and was the steepest along the entire route, so much so that some early travelers, too frightened at the prospect of driving such a potentially dangerous road, hired locals to navigate the winding grade.
