The Golden Rule of Habit Change

Classical conditioning The process of associating a neutral stimulus with an involuntary response until the stimulus elicits the response.

Clicker Training Terms

Clicker training is a subset of operant conditioning, using only positive reinforcement, extinction, and, to a lesser extent, negative punishment. Enhancements could occur because some aspect of the extinction memory is strengthened.

Implications of learning theory for developing programs to decrease overeating

If a previously reinforced behavior is not reinforced, the animal will increase the intensity or frequency of the behavior in an attempt to earn the reinforcement again. Synonyms: conditioned reinforcer Shaping Building new behavior by selectively reinforcing variations in existing behavior, during the action rather than after completion, to increase or strengthen the behavior in a specific manner or direction.

Differential Contribution of Amygdala and Hippocampus to Cued and Contextual Fear Conditioning — NYU Scholars

Methods Here, we assessed the effects of procedural variables on the impaired extinction phenotype of the S1 strain and, by comparison, the extinction-intact B6 strain. There were no significant differences between the context-exposed and noncontingent cue + context exposed group for test 1.
