According to an historian who has investigated the incident, the reason for this dust up was that both the Army and Navy hierarchy wanted to keep the Army airmen in their place, and the long Juneau to Seattle over water flight disrupted the agreement the two services had concluded on coastal defense. Maj Major General Larson, Westside T Capt Major General McClellan, Hezekiah 1 Lt killed in flying accident May 1936 McClelland, Harold M. The stories start out common enough, but they always have a twist, making one rethink the possibilities and remember that there is more than just the usual cliché ending.
