The old sage sits in his chair in dignified contemplation, casting his eyes to heaven as though experiencing a vision whilst a very realistic, if at first glance, over-sized hand rests on a large tome, likely an early scripture or possibly a reference to the scrolls usually associated with this particular saint, in reference to his writings. No obvious damage to the cover, with the dust jacket if applicable included for hard covers. It gives a balanced coverage of his sculpture in different media and in the different cities of Italy and of the political, social, and religious background against which
