The Emigrant Aid Company in the Kansas Conflict

The following notice published in Eastern papers advertised the event: The Second Party for Kansas, under the auspices of the Emigrant Aid Company, will leave Boston on TUESDAY, 29th inst. H, Second Kansas cavalry, 1862-1865. The land not being surveyed, claims were less valuable than supposed, and many were consequently discouraged from making improvements.

REPORT OF THE EMIGRANT AID SOCIETY

Whether or not, as asserted, it was primarily the pronouncements of the company and the arrival of its parties that incited the invasions of the Missourians can be answered only on the basis of prejudice or personal opinion; there seems to be little room to doubt, however, that the Aid Company propaganda and activities were one factor in arousing the Missourians. Those present and participating in the founding of the city, as their names appear in the records, were M.
