Few would go so far as actually to name the member of the Ti lun School who wrote the AFM, as Liebenthal did indeed, as Liebenthal himself remarked, it is difficult to believe that any member of the Ti lun School could have written the AFM, given that the author of the AFM does not even seem to know the ten bodhisattvabhūmis described in the Daśabhūmividyākhya, but for a long time scholarly opinion has leaned in the direction of assigning authorship of the AFM to the Chinese. Both Christianity and the New Buddhism hold to the transcendent and the immanent forms of God; but the East emphasises more of the immanent form while the West emphasises more of the transcendent.
