Majlis

He said that although Mohammed Baqir was a youth those days, he had acquired such learning in different disciplines that no eminent scholar of the time had achieved his level of learning. But evil fortune brought down on him in that he had laid in ruins the tomb of Imam Husain, at Karbala, and furthermore he had prevented people from making their visitation to the same — decreed.

Islamic Consultative Assembly

Even the most eminent members of the Shii ulama in the preceding centuries had come under the influence of Sufism.

Allama Baqir Majlisi

As time progressed, he also studied under Mullah Sadra, Mullah Faiz Kashani, and Allama Hassan Ali Shustari.
