Portrait of a Young Woman in White by Jacques

Some time later Walter overhears a conversation between a policeman and a coach passenger suggesting that the woman is deranged and has escaped from an asylum.

Gandhara Clerk

Anne has been psychologically abused throughout her life and remembers Laura's mother as the single person who showed her great kindness, which is what compels her to help the latter's progeny. Indeed he claimed that after he first outlined the book's plot, opium wiped it almost entirely from his memory.

Woman in White

With the problem of Laura's refusal to give away her fortune and Anne's knowledge of his secret, Fosco conspires to use the resemblance between Laura and Anne to exchange their two identities.

The Woman in White (TV Mini)

Count Fosco is another fantastic character in this novel. There is also a large legal documentation question with the mixed up identities of Anne and Laura, an issue that would usually have to be cleared up in court. Pesca does not, but the Count recognizes Pesca instantly and flees the opera house in fear.

Wilkie Collins, The Woman in White

These atmospheric scenes are filmed at the Old Maghera Church at the village of Dundrum in County Down, Northern Ireland. By the same token, he took the most overworked stereotypes of the classical tradition and re-invested them with candour and freshness.

The Woman in White (novel)

Walter suspects that Anne died before Laura's trip to London, and proof of this would prove their story, but only Fosco knows the dates. The annotations have been carefully researched and the various appendices succeed in furnishing the reader with exactly the right sort of contextual and background matter to give a better understanding of the story. Nor were they the first: it was first adapted as a low-budget Warner Bros.
