Mount Mulligan mine disaster

The township was situated at the foot of the mountain, a flat-topped pinkcoloured precipice which rarely failed to attract comment from visitors, either as a natural spectacle; elongated; sombre; forbidding; yet, withal fascinating by reason of its curious formation - inaccessible except to the most adventurous. The Chillagoe smelters drew the bulk of their ore from the Mungana Company, closely allied to the Chillagoe Company, whose principal workings were the Girofia and Lady Jane mines at Mungana.
