Export performance during economic transition in Mongolia

This site is only available in Spanish. Firm self-regulation through international certifiable standards: Determinants of symbolic versus substantive implementation.

World Investment Report

In addition, the site contains market links for countries globally, an exporter directory, and trade news and events. Such competition can also sometimes result in pre-emptive internationalization, as when Embraer Brazil and Techint Argentina invested abroad in the 1990s, ahead of liberalization in their respective home industries.

EXPORT PROMOTION FOR ECON TRANSIT

Another is that some host countries might feel threatened by the presence of too many firms from a single home country. The survey results, and the Executive Forum 2000 consultation, reveal that there has not been a concerted effort within the business community of most developing and transition economies either to acquire e-competency or to use the Internet as a tool to increase or, at the very least, maintain international competitiveness.

Questia

Journal of Business Ethics, 96, 631—645. As always, the beneficial impacts have to be weighed against possible damaging impacts. The site provides information on various financing models, diverse services for professionals, information on various sectors, and information on international and national agreements.
