God for a Secular Society: The Public Relevance of Theology

In this masterful analysis of the religious and political dilemmas at the end of the modern age, world-renowned theologian Jürgen Moltmann assays the vaulting dreams and colossal failures of our time. In a world reeling between utopia and disaster, Moltmann here passionately and provocatively shows how Christian discipleship, through engagement and solidarity, can blaze a redemptive path.

If one keeps in mind that Moltmann is not specifically addressing Christians, and uses language more familiar to non-Christian listeners, you will find this book highly accessible in readability, challenging in thought and concepts, and urgent in timeliness. He is professor emeritus of systematic theology at the University of Tübingen and the 2000 recipient of the Louisville Grawemeyer Award in Religion.

But we must also recognize that there are the rights that belong to the human race in what Moltmann calls the generational contract.
