One is the sense of an age that has utterly passed.

Hugo Young · Longing for Mao: Edward Heath · LRB 26 November 1998

You are a rather sorry individual. The unknown life of Alan Clark, celebrated diarist, womaniser, Tory MP and controversial minister in Mrs Thatcher's governments. He sees EU social legislation that tries to safeguard workers against temporary contracts and part-time jobs as counter-productive — even if it makes little change in working practices.

Alan Clark: The Biography

Roger Thornhill, Just read your manifesto. For younger readers, formed in the Thatcherite world, the account may arouse the same incredulity, concerning a world they could barely imagine, as a visit to the dinosaurs at the Natural History Museum.

David McKie introduces Hugo Young: Extract from his notes on politicians

Cohorts of research assistants came and went, their work hardly allowed to begin. Anyone can read his encounters and correspondence with Lloyd George, Kerensky, Churchill, Woodrow Wilson, Lord Curzon, Lord Smuts, Ramsay MacDonald. In 1993, both sides of the British élite, but especially the promoters of dissent, were proud of the intensity of its discussions.

Conservative MPs' Christmas reading list

Even return to the ERM is a course it would be unwise for an ambitious politician to advise within two hundred miles of a party conference.
