Cross

In Europe's euregions, it is argued, issues of democracy, identity, sovereignty, citizenship and scale must be rethought, when a border runs through it. Better corporate governance, similar to better political governance, cannot be achieved by regulation alone. These structures are usually composed by public authorities

They should ensure appropriate tone from top management and clear expectations with regard to stewardship responsibilities. EGTC facilitate cross-border, transnational and interregional cooperation by co-financing projects through European funds or without EU financial support. They also noted that currently, the investment industry falls short in carrying out its full stewardship responsibilities and that those in the industry as well as other participants in the governance ecosystem need to be reminded and encouraged to carry out their proper roles and responsibilities.

Corporate Governance Policy in the European Union

It brings together a distinguished interdisciplinary group of European and American scholars to analyze the core theoretical features of the EU's new experimentalist governance architecture and explore. Thus, IPA is the instrument established by the EU to strengthen institutional capacity by providing them assistance and technical help in administrative, political, social and economic reforms.
