Profiles in Dunder

He came from a relatively difficult childhood of loneliness. Logic implies that happiness and distorted thinking could not co-exist.

Michael Scott (The Office)

His longtime goal is to get rid of Toby and any attempts at reconciliation between the two usually backfire, with Michael resorting to name calling or jokes at Toby's expense. Due to Carell being unavailable, was selected as Michael Scott and was part of the cast presented to NBC executives. His laid-back approach more often results in lower than expected workplace productivity, particularly when Michael places personal interests as a priority over work such as his birthday, someone else's birthday, or his various seminars.
