High-magnesium waters and soils: Emerging environmental and food security constraints

There is a long list of countries where salt-induced land degradation occurs. These soils are distributed in desert and semi-desert regions, frequently occurring in fertile alluvial plains, river valleys, coastal areas and in irrigation districts.

Climate, history, and demography : a case

In the Indus plains of Pakistan and India, the practice of irrigation began about 2000 years ago during the Harappa civilization, but it is only recently that serious problems of salinity and sodicity are being encountered.

High-magnesium waters and soils: Emerging environmental and food security constraints

Different terminology for alkali soils is used in some parts of the world to express sodicity hazard. Compared to calcareous soils, gypsiferous soils were found to have more pedogenic palygorskite. Similarly, calcium as a CaSO<sub>4</sub> application also caused a considerable improvement in plant growth 34 to 52% and grain yield 25 to 43%.
