Il illustre un passage de l' , où Jésus dépose sur les yeux de l'aveugle son onguent. Cette étude de deux têtes d'hommes doit être mise en relation avec l'un des rares tableaux d'église peints par Boucher, le Saint Pierre tentant de marcher sur les eaux 1766.,

François Boucher (Paris 1703

Boucher made the series in the mid-1730s for an unknown patron. Eventually, the cartoons were cut into sections and sold separately. The latter is a canine inclusion not without sexual connotation in the iconography of the period - though Boucher can hardly be thought to portray his spouse in the role of teasing mistress.

The Bird Catchers (Getty Museum)

Ce dessin est daté entre 1735 et 1740. These were printed in red ink so they resembled red chalk drawings which could be framed as little pictures.
