Miriam Lord: Forget the non makey

It just kept pulling me in deeper. Hilaire's conception of evolution contains elements that form the {30} background of our thinking to-day, for taken broadly, the interaction between the organism and its environment was a mechanistic conception of evolution even though the details of the theory were inadequate to establish his contention.

Why pick the form of a letter to do this? I was once, one early evening, sitting on a bench, in Rotherham bus-station, and within me there was a sense, an overwhelming, indescribable, sense of well-being. He appealed to a fact familiar to everyone, that no two individuals are identical and that some of the differences that they show are inherited.

The Lord Chandos Letter and Other Writings by Hugo von Hofmannsthal

An egg, and the division of the egg—the so-called process of cleavage.

Prince Phillip was a man of action with boundless energy

He will be reduced to silence, he says, as far as human languages are concerned.
